DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

Page 1, line 14, change "experience to tell the correct of scale marks" to read, "experience to identify the correct scale markings".

Page 1, line 15, change "a potential error could happened when reading the scale" to read, "an error could potentially occur when reading the scale".

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
 The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 3. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
- 4. Claims 1, 3 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite in that it fails to point out what is included or excluded by the claim language. This claim is an omnibus type claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Application/Control Number: 10/779,675

Art Unit: 3723

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1 and 2, as best understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over McGraw '436 in view of Wells, Jr. '012.

McGraw discloses a wrench comprising: a handle and a head, a fixed jaw integrally connected to an end of handle, a through hole defined through the head and a thumb screw rotatably engaged with the through hole, a slot defined in an end of the head, a movable jaw having an insertion which is movably engaged with the slot, a rack portion defined in the insertion of the movable jaw and engaged with the thumb screw so that the movable jaw is movable toward the fixed jaw by rotating the thumb screw. McGraw does not specifically disclose an indicator having a display device including a screen, a variable resistor connected to the head and electrically connected to the display device and the movable jaw connected to variable resistor. Wells, Jr. discloses a digital fastener size indicator having a display device including a screen, a variable resistor connected to the head and electrically connected to the display device and the movable jaw connected to variable resistor so as to translate the electrical measurements into a single discrete readable number. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skills in the art at the time the invention was made to have made the wrench of McGraw to have a display device including a screen, a variable resistor connected to the head and electrically connected to the display device and the movable jaw connected to variable resistor as taught by Wells, Jr. so as to translate the electrical measurements into a single discrete readable number

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 3-6 are allowed.

8. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The art of record does not teach or suggest a wrench having a light-activation electric resistor; or a light source connected to one of the insides of the slot and a photoelectric member connected to the other side of the slot so as to receive a light beam emitted from the light source, as claimed.
